Water agency staff recommends $250,000 fine

■Environmental group, city manager & council candidate all trade salvos

By Steve Marschke

Staff of the state's Regional Water Quality Control Board has recommended that West Sacramento be fined $250,000 for violations of the city's sewage discharge permit. But for opposite reasons, neither the city nor its environmental-group opponents are happy with that figure.

"We're asking for a million dollar fine," said Mark Fleming, executive director of the Sacramento Valley Toxics Campaign. Fleming alleged that West Sacramento officials are still "ducking for cover and trying to cover their rears. There's been a huge lack of leadership, and in an election year, that's very telling."

City manager Joe Goeden, meanwhile, said the city will ask that the fine be reduced when city officials go before the state water resources board May 20. He said the fine is out of proportion for the city's offenses, and has come in response to media pressure and lobbying by Fleming's group.

"I would expect some form of discipline, but is a $250,000 something you would normally do?," he asked. "Another plant in the region (Auburn's) has had two fish kills -- the last one killing 15,000 fish, and they got a $30,000 fine. In Sacramento, raw sewage goes into the river six or seven times a year, and they are operating under a cease and desist order with no fine. So we're going to argue for something lower."

Fleming said that Goeden "has no allegiance to the truth" and is not dealing in good faith solving the West Sacramento sewage treatment plant's problems. And he criticized the water quality board's recommendation for not calling for criminal prosecution of some city personnel.

Among the crimes, he said, is the dumping of various debris along the riverbank between the South River Road sewage facility.

"The fact that there is one piece of solid waste in the river -- one asbestos pipe, one car battery -- is a criminal violation of the law. What more proof do they need?"

He said Goeden was told of many of the plant's improper procedures over a year ago by several whistleblowers -- a claim Goeden denies.

The city manager repeated Tuesday that he had been brought grievances by several public works employees, but that he cannot recall ever having been told of procedural misconduct in the sewage plant's operations.

Fleming countered that.

"If Joe Goeden continues to deny had knowledge about the testing procedures and dumping along the riverbank, we will produce evidence showing he knew."

Mark Fleming

For his part, Goeden emphasized that most of the city's hundreds of permit violations over the past year (and beyond) were not "toxic" discharges into the river. They were merely an honest misunderstanding -- a failure to report "extra" test results gleaned by public works personnel trying to calibrate their aging equipment.

"There were hundreds of violations of non-reporting," he said, "but you've got to look at the intent."

The city sent state officials a memo which outlined their testing procedures last July, he added, and that fact shows that West Sacramento public works employees thought they were in compliance.

Goeden also said that the term "toxics" was being used to sensationalized the issue, when the state report this week identified only three releases of excess chlorine being dumped into the river. Chlorine is used to treat wastes at the plant, and is supposed to be removed chemically after it does its job.

"We keep hearing about toxics going into the river," said Goeden. "We don't need to use the word 'toxics' anymore. It's called chlorine, and yes, in certain concentrations, it is toxic."

Fleming said his organization would like to drop its lawsuit against West Sacramento, but needs to see more of a clean-up attempt by city officials before it does.

"Somebody has to take a lead role," he commented.

Vengeful widow accuses West Sacramento man of murder

■ Accused of a murder he says he didn't commit, West Sacramento man finds a silver lining in his notoriety

By Steve Marschke

For 65-year old Eugene Hartman of West Sacramento, a widow's vengeance is a mixed blessing.

Eugene Hartman

Hartman was once convicted -- wrongly, he says -- of killing the woman's husband, with whom he once shared an office. But after serving nearly two years for the crime, a higher court ordered him released.

The woman, Ruth Langlos, did not sway in her own conviction. She has co-written a book, Murder No Doubt, which essentially claims that Hartman has gotten away with the murder of her husband.

Now, Langlos and Hartman have become somewhat of a talk show team, having appeared on the Maury Povich show, Inside Edition, Inside Reports and in other news magazines. Sometime within the next few weeks, said Hartman, he will be invited to New York to tell his side of the story to Tom Brokaw's new newsmagazine, called "NOW." And the income from such appearances doesn't hurt, he said.

The public relations campaign was started by Langlos, he commented:

"She was obsessed and mentally ill. Now, she's doing it for the money. To some degree, I am too."

It all started in 1976, when, according to Hartman, John Langlos died of a heart attack. The two men, both psychologists, shared an office in the Los Angeles-area town of Downey, and that's where Langlos died.

"Immediately there were police there and investigators from the coroner's office. The coroner said he had died of a heart attack. The officers at the scene told Mrs. Langlos her husband had been beaten viciously, had his head beaten against the wall, and had a 300-lb. desk dropped on his head, and had been strangled."

Much of this was mere speculation, said Hartman, since Langlos apparently struck his head on the desk and wall and left smudges of blood. Dying, the man slid under his desk.

The Los Angeles Times and other members of the media kept referring to the "blood-spattered office" in which Langlos was found, keeping the murder "myth" alive for Mrs. Langlos, he added.

"Two weeks later (and still unaware of the murder, since he had been out of town), I was arrested in San Jose on suspicion of murder. The Downey police did not have a warrant for my arrest. They did not have a warrant to arrest me or confiscate my suitcase," he claimed.

The dead man's wallet and checkbook were never found, for reasons Hartman said are still unknown. But because Hartman cashed one of the man's checks for $100, he said, he became a suspect.

"I happily and eagerly pled guilty to forging the check," he said. "What happened is he gave me a check the Thursday before he died because he wanted to get some money out of the bank without his wife knowing. He was a recovered alcoholic and wanted to go out with drinking buddies."

Langlos lobbied the L.A. Board of Supervisors and other influential people, all the while trying to get the city's chief coroner, Thomas Noguchi, to change the death certificate on her husband which still maintained natural causes. Some coroners in the office agreed with her theory of murder.

And in 1983 -- after the original coroners in the case had died -- Hartman was re-arrested and stood trial for murder.

"I was convicted of second degree murder," he said. "This was no victory for her. Everyone knew the most I would get would be two years in Chino."

But just before the two years were up, a higher court overturned Hartman's conviction, saying due process had been violated.

"You can't wait until the coroner dies to have a new trial, the court said, and they gave a jillion other reasons."

Hartman left Southern California to care for his father (now deceased) in West Sacramento. He is now a resident of the Riverbend Senior Manor.

He said that in the past, the media has often paid only scant interest to his side of the story. Once, a television crew interviewed him and filmed in walking on a city street.

"They showed that picture and said 'Gene Hartman is still stalking Ruth Langlos,' " he laughed.

He unsuccessfully sued Langlos in a Los Angeles court for defamation and invasion of privacy, and is seeking unspecified monetary damages in a new lawsuit.

But he said he bears the woman no ill will for her campaign to bring him to what she believes is justice.

"There's no hate, no anger," he said. "I've been stunned at times. Now all these years, we'll be doing these TV shows together. . ."

City, county ink deal to buy social service sites

On Thursday, May 5, West Sacramento and Yolo County officials signed the final documents to acquire buildings to house social services, health services and community partnership. The buildings acquired for this purpose are located at 1038 Triangle Court and 500 Jefferson Blvd. They will be remodeled for use by the county.

This acquisition ends an approximate eleven month effort on the part of the city and county to buy and exchange property for the mutual benefit of the citizenry. The city is contributing $1.5

West Sac Historical Society is now a non-profit group

by Virginia Seamans

The Secretary of State has approved the application of the West Sacramento Historical Society as a California non-profit corporation with tax-exempt status. This is one of the goals stated early in the organization of the society. Sincere thanks are due to Margaret Crawford and Jake Misfeldt, who completed the paperwork necessary to this accomplishment.

The society welcomes two interns: Mark Sira, a senior at California State University; and Chris Peterson, a Davis graduate, who is working on a Master's degree in history at San Francisco State University. It is anticipated that these two young men will be of great help with the proposed interviewing of our older residents.

A special program is planned for the general membership meeting on Tuesday, May 17, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Turner Branch of the Yolo County Library at 1212 Merkley. Three long-time residents of the area will discuss growing up here. Rena Lukins grew up in the Broderick area, while her husband Bob and their fiend Raul De Anda both grew up in the West Sacramento area. This will be the first structured program of reminiscences, a concept long awaited by many members. The public is invited to attend.

For information call Bryan Turner at 371-6915 or Louisa Vessell at 451-5749.

West Sacto students to meet Japanese mayor

The mayor of Iyomishima, Japan, has extended a special invitation to the fourth and fifth grade boys and girls of Westmore Oaks, the adopted school of the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, to present their impressions of our city, the port, and local scenery. Their art work will be displayed with the pictures of children from fifteen other port cities from around the world to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the founding of Iyomishima and the 25th anniversary of the opening of their port.

To kick off this exciting project, the students will be hosted on a tour of California Woodfiber Corporation here in West Sacramento which is a wholly-owned subsidary of Daio Paper Company located in Iyomishima. At CWC they will view the preparation of wood chips which are used in paper making. They will also tour the port of Sacramento where the chips are received, stored, and loaded aboard the vessels of Daio Paper for delivery to their facility in Japan.

After their visit to California Woodfiber Corporation at 1890 Parkway (approximately 9:30 a.m., May 11) the Port of Sacramento (approximately 10:15 a.m.), they will be hosted for a pizza lunch at Sam Combs Park (approximately 11 a.m.). For more information or details on photo opportunities, please call the port at 371-8000.

Public forum to benefit city's economic development

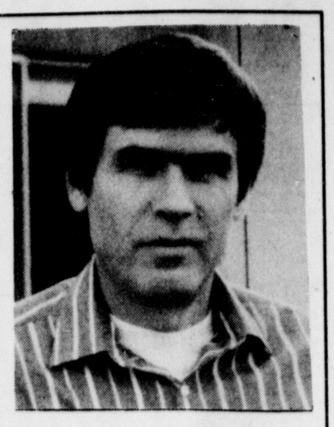
by Denise Kotko, City of West Sacramento

Attracting retail business to West Sacramento is not as simple as just letting a business know that space is available. It includes determining the type of business that will fit the needs of the community and identifying land and other associated services that will fit the needs of the business. EDAC, the city's economic development advisory commission, knows that the process of attracting and retaining business requires planning and attention.

As part of developing the city's overall economic development strategy and marketing program, the commission is holding a public forum. The forum will allow citizens to identify the types of businesses and services they would like as part of the future of West Sacramento. The information gleaned at the public forum will be included in the economic development strategy that will continue to the next step of identifying the related services necessary to locate those specific businesses in West Sacramento. Be a part of this process. Attend the public forum of "attracting business to West Sacramento" to be held in the city council chambers on May 23 at 6 p.m.

The forum could serve as the opportunity for you to be a part of the growth of West Sacramento.

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Well, another Mother's Day has come and gone and I've screwed it up again. I did manage to remember to send my mother a card (although my wife — who is a great mother in her own right — picked it out and mailed it for me), but I completely forgot to give her a call — much less tell her that I love her.

Why is it that so many sons in general — and me in particular — have such a difficult time verbalizing their appreciation for all their mother has done for them over the years? Maybe it's some kind of a macho thing? Maybe it's because I always seem to be so wrapped up in little league and other such time consuming activities in the spring? And then again, maybe it's just because I'm an insensitive cretin who is always forgetting the things which really matter in this life.

Anyway, although it's a couple of days (years, actually) late, here is my own Top Ten List of the things which make my mom so special:

#10: I have always had the head the size of a bowling ball, so I guess it's fair to say that even from the very beginning, I have been a real pain to my mother — yet she continues to put up with me.

#9: When I was three, I fell out of the back seat of my parents car (I still think I was pushed out by my twin sister, Cheryl, but I've never been able to prove it), which was going about 55 MPH on one of our local freeways. I landed on my hard head, bounced off the asphalt and ended up in a ditch. It was my poor mother who had to police up what was left of me and hold my bloody head in her lap as my dad raced for the nearest hospital.

#8: When I was a teenager, it was my mother who always waited up for me — no matter how late I dragged in from a date or a night out on the town — refusing to go to sleep until I was safely in the house.

#7: It was Mom who always used up all her spare money picking out new school clothes for me and my sister and brother — never buying anything for herself.

#6: It was my mother who had to read the telegram from the US Army notifying her that I had been wounded in Vietnam, thinking all the time that such a telegram meant — as it had in World War II — that her son was dead.

#5: It was Mom who had to wait patiently until I was almost 27 years old before I finally got married and forked over one of the few things she had ever wanted for herself — her first grandchild.

#4: It's my mother who digs deep into her and my father's savings each year to make sure that all of their grandkids (7 at the last count) have a wonderful Christmas.

#3: It's Mom who always works so hard at all of our family gatherings — especially at Thanksgiving — making sure there are more good things to eat than anyone could possibly digest.

#2: It's also Mom who cooks up my favorite liver and onion dinner from time to time, sympathetic to my wife's aversion to touching "squirmy things."

#1: And finally, the number one reason my mom is so special is that she has somehow managed to put up with my dad for over 60 years (they met when they were in grade school), and as he would be the first to admit, if for no other reason, she definitely deserves a medal for that.

The other evening, I was talking to a friend who has made a conscious decision to place being the best possible mother she can be at the very top of her list of priorities, and when the subject of Mother's Day came up, she said with sincerity, "You know, when all my sons are grown up and on their own, I just hope I will have done a good enough job for all of them to want to send me a nice card on Mother's Day — and really mean what it says on the inside."

So, Mom, since I don't have the foggiest idea what was written on the inside of that darn Mother's Day card Mary sent you, this column will have to do. But the next time I do something inconsiderate (and we both know you won't have to wait too long), just remember that I remember that like all really special mothers, you were always there when I needed you — and there were even times when you were the only wind under my wings.

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Giants split their first series of the season with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

All four games of the series went down to the wire. The Dodgers won the first game 9-6 but the Giants had the bases loaded with one out in the ninth. then rookie relief ace Darren Dreifort came in and struck out Robby Thompson and Dave Martinez to end the game.

The Giants won the second game of the series 2-1 in a rain-soaked game. Saturday's game went extra innings, with the Dodgers winning 3 to 2.

The best game was on Sunday, with the game televised on ESPN, the DGiants trailed the Dodgers 4-3 and facing Dreifort again. In the bottom of the ninth, John patterson, who replaced injured second baseman Thompson (strained right shoulder), singled to left field, scoring Mike Benjamin for a 4-4 tie.

Then came Matt Williams, who thrilled the crowd of 41,847 and a national TV audience with the bases-loaded single to left for the game winning hit.

This was a classic Giants-and-Dodgers series and the kind of baseball games you want your children to watch so they can understand that Major League Baseball is a fun sport to watch!

The bad news for the A's continues, with Mark McGwire going on the disabled list with a stress fracture in his foot. The A's pitching is still getting blasted and the team has lost 17 of their last 19 games. The good news is they're still only four games out of first!

In boxing, in what was billed the "Revenge: The Rematches" card in Las Vegas last Saturday night, Julio Cesar Chavez (90-1-1) won a controversial eight-round technical split decision over Frankie Randall, regaining the WBC super-welterweight title. An unintentional head-butt opened a two-inch vertical gash above Chavez's right eye.

The bout was stopped and the scorecards were totaled, and a point was deducted from Randall. That deduction proved to be the deciding factor in the scoring.

Promoter Don King is already working on the third fight between these two warriors. It was a good fight, but what has me worried about boxing these days is that these pay-per-view promotions are starting to look like WWF Wrestling!!

See ya next week!!

HOUSING AUTHORITY OF THE COUNTY OF YOLO NOTICE
REGARDING PROPOSAL TO IMPLEMENT MORTGAGE CREDIT CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, at their meeting held on April 5, 1994, the Board of the Housing Authority of the County of Yolo ("Housing Authority") approved a staff recommendation to file an application to the California Debt Limit Allocation Committee (CDLAC) to initiate a Mortgage Credit Certificate (MCC) Program in the unincorporated County and in the cities of Davis, West Sacramento, Winters and Woodland. If approved by the California Debt Limit Allocation Committee (CDLAC) at its June 17, 1994 meeting, MCCs can be issued to eligible first time homebuyers in those cities listed above who have executed cooperative agreements with the Housing Authority. These MCCs can be issued 90 calendar days from the date of this notice. The MCC Program is being administered by the Housing Authority in conjunction with participating mortgage lenders in Yolo County.

The MCC Program is a means of providing financial assistance to first-time homebuyers by allowing those homebuyers to take a specified percentage of annual mortgage interest payments as a tax credit (20%) against their federal personal income tax. The MCCs are available to eligible homebuyers on a first-come, first-served basis. Under the proposed procedures, MCC applicants will contact participating lenders to determine eligibility. If eligible, the applicant will pay an application fee of $200, and the Housing Authority will reserve an MCC for the applicant and release the certificate to the applicant at close of escrow.

Among other requirements, eligibility is restricted to:

- Persons who have not owned a "principal residence" within the past three years (does not apply in designated Target Areas);
- Purchase of a residence for occupancy by owner, not for rental or investment;
- New homes with a purchase price that does not exceed $198,400 and $242,400 in Target Areas;
- Existing homes with a purchase price that does not exceed $138,900 and $169,700 in Target Areas;
- New mortgages only (no assumed or subordinated mortgages);
- Total household income not to exceed 100% of median income ($44,600) for one and two person households (Target Areas = $53,500). For households of three or more, maximum household income cannot exceed $51,300 which is 115% of median (Target Areas = $62,400);
- The Housing Authority also has proposed to set aside 20% of the MCC allocation for Target Areas, 30% of the allocation for lower income households at 80% of median or below ($35,680), and 30% of the allocation for purchases or newly constructed homes.

Additional information regarding eligibility requirements and program procedures are available from the Housing Authority of the County of Yolo, P.O. Box 1867, Woodland, CA 95776 (916) 662-5428.

PERSONS WISHING TO SUBMIT WRITTEN COMMENTS MAY SUBMIT THEM TO THE HOUSING AUTHORITY AND/OR DELIVER THEM TO THE HOUSING AUTHORITY OFFICES AT 1224 LEMEN AVENUE, WOODLAND, CA.

OPINION

News-Ledger

A step in the right direction

No, it doesn't mean that West Sacramento won't squabble with its large neighbor across the river anymore. But an agreement on the table for West Sacramento's city council to sign tonight is a good start in building a productive relationship with Sacramento.

The agreement provides for the first-ever joint planning effort between the two cities, as part of the Sacramento Riverfront Master Plan.

West Sacramento already has much of its riverfront planning in place. But, as a staff report to the council points out, "gaps exist and there is additional opportunity to knit together our individual riverfront projects" through the new master plan.

The two cities are linked, and wise development of one will benefit the other. It makes sense to jointly plan some of the aesthetic, transportation and facilities issues of the riverfront.

The plan is already underway, and Sacramento's Housing and Redevelopment Agency invited West Sacramento to jump onboard in February, in "midstream." Fortunately, the consultant involved in the planning is already familiar with West Sacramento's Triangle Area Specific Plan and other riverfront plans.

Approving West Sacramento's participation in the new riverfront will be a good use of $38,500 in Redevelopment Agency funds.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for support

We want to extend our most heartfelt appreciation to the people of West Sacramento for your outpouring of support during our son Maxwell's hospitalization and recovery from Guillain-Barre Syndrome.

Thank you, to the students, parents and staff at Westmore Oaks School, the West Sacramento Little League, and West Sacramentans who expressed their caring and concern in so many ways. We are most appreciative of the efforts made by Lois Sweeten and Pam Givett, organizers of the "Run to the Max for Max" jogathon, which was an exceptional effort by everyone involved. Lois has also been a tremendous source of moral support throughout Max's illness.

We also thank Pastor Marge Beach, June Emerson, and many others who called, visited and included Max in their thoughts and prayers.

Such a caring community is a special blessing.

Flowers

We would like to thank the West Sacramento Motorcycle Shop and especially Jime Crewe, Sharon Grewe, Lois Huckaby and Betty Lyon for planting the beautiful flowers and putting a brick border around the new Riverbend Senior Manor sign.

The seniors really were impressed by their thoughtfulness.

They not only beautify their place of business during beautification week but work at it all year long.

They indeed are an asset to our community. Again, thank you.

The most common saying about real estate is that you only need to know three things, location, location, and location. While that may be true in general, the next most common concern is, "What is the quality of the schools?" The people most often quizzed about the quality of the local schools are not school employees, but real estate agents. Unfortunately, real estate agents have a bad impression of the West Sacramento schools. Property values are affected by these feelings. West Sacramento will never acheive its potential as long as its schools are perceived to be of low quality.

Ten years ago, West Sacramento's test scores were abysmal. Various board members began talking about school reform. As time passed, the need for change became more and more apparent.

Real change, unfortunately, is very threatening to entrenched bureaucracies. Discerning and integrating more effective strategies is no small task. Ask IBM! Furthermore, unions are even more resistant to change. They have a huge investment, in time and energy, in the status quo. For them to vote for change, they must believe that the crisis is so bad that they may lose their status, jobs, etc., if they don't change.

Greatly compounding the resistance to change, in West Sacramento's schools, are two destructive phenomenon. While these two phenomenon are not peculiar to our town, it is highly unusual to have them both present at the same time.

One, it is common knowledge that it is desirable to have the majority of school, fire, police, and city employees living in the community. The reason that this is true should be obvious to anyone. If my own family's safety, education, property values or general well being may be affected by my own organization, then I will be much more concerned about its effectiveness. While the city organizations make a concerted effort to get their employees to locate in West Sacramento, the school district's teacher and administrator staff is almost totally non-resident. Other than retaining their jobs, they have no personal stake in the future of West Sacramento.

The second destructive phenomenon "enjoyed" by West Sacramento's children was the existence of the political machine located around Westmore Oaks. For years and years, their control of the school district gave them real power. For a generation, they were able to use this control to serve their own interests. The rest of the community suffered.

By 1988, the desire for reform was so strong, a majority of board members fired the entrenched superintendent. Naturally, the old ruling clique was mightily displeased. They sought to destroy the reputations, careers, and financial well being of anyone even remotely connected to the reform movement. While their attempt to recall the board majority failed miserably, they successfully drove some of the offending board members from office and stalled the reform movement.

They then sought to regain control of the board. However, to their utter consternation, they emerged from the special election of two years ago, without control of the board. They now faced a board majority totally committed to reform of our schools. Never before had they had to deal with a majority group of board members who could not be suborned, bought or intimidated.

Mostly by default, it fell to Hal Williams to be the spokesperson (the lightning rod) for the reformers on the board. As such, he absorbed the bulk of the character assassination efforts by the clique and their cronies. Naturally, there were times when his patience wore thin. Be honest! Ask yourself if you could absorb two years of brutal verbal assaults and character assassination without ever losing your cool. What is astounding, all things considered, is how seldom hal lost it in public.

Finally, Hal Williams deserves your vote. He has earned the right to finish the job he began two years ago. The new superintendent, the school board, the children, and the community still need his utter commitment to building a quality school system.

Vote for Westvik

I am a Washington Unified School District retiree. Having been employed by W.U.S.D. for almost 40 years, a lifelong resident of this area and having attended school in this area myself and having had three sons who attended schools here also, and having had one of these sons on the W.U.S.D. school board for almost 6 years, you can see that W.U.S.D. has been a very important part of my life. This is why, over the last few years and without going into any of the details and without mentioning any names, I've become very unhappy with what has been happening to our school district. Not only have I been unhappy, but just about everyone I talk to, feel changes have to be made.

Some changes within the district administration have been made with more to come, but the job isn't finished yet. We need changes on our school board. Unfortunately only two new members can be elected this June. But it's a start.

We, the voters, have the opportunity of electing a person who has given many years of dedicated service to the Washington Unified School District as a teacher and a principal.

Ardeene Westvik is this person. Ardeene Westvik is now retired and would have the time, the experience and the knowledge needed to be a well-qualified W.U.S.D. board member.

Having known Ardeene Westvik for many years, I've always known her to be a very caring person who has always listened to and responded to the needs of the students, the public and the employees of the district.

If you, as voters, are as concerned about the future direction of our school district as I am...please vote for Ardeene Westvik. We need Ardeene's experience of over 30 years of community and school district on our school board.

Remember, on June 7, to vote for Ardeene Westvik for W.U.S.D. board of education and get your friends and relatives to do the same. Thank you.

GLORIA MEYERS

Pro-Westvik

Those of you who know Ardeene Westvik are probably wondering why she is running as a candidate for the Washington Unified School District board of trustees. Last week, when talking with her, she said, "I don't know why I'm doing this — except..." One thing she went on to say was that she is certain she can represent the whole district, not just one area.

Ardeene has experience as teacher and administrator at several local schools. She has attended board meetings for years. She has the knowledge and the skills to be an outstanding board member.

As you drive around West Sacramento, you can spot Ardeene's campaign signs in yards of many school employees and former employees. Is this an unfair advantage? I don't think so. After all, you can't fool the people you work with day after day for over thirty years. She has earned our respect.

The people of this community deserve someone with Ardeene's abilities on the board to speak for us and to add some much needed "class."

Slow and sure

The on-going sensational findings about West Sacramento's problems with its sanitary sewer system should focus on blame later, but now, the problem is how best to correct the inherent problems in the system and make the monitoring of the outfall com-

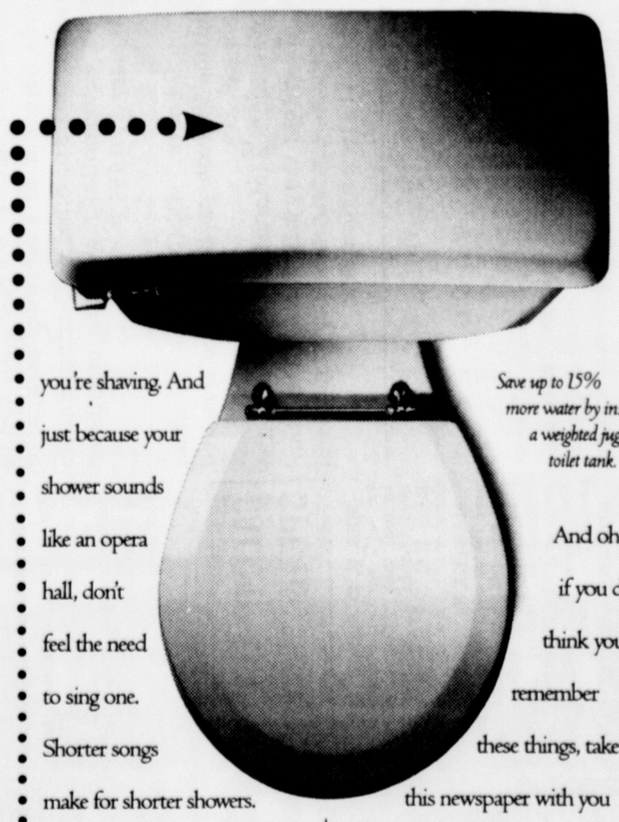
HOW TO USE THE BATHROOM.



You're probably saying to yourself, any four-year-old knows how to use the bathroom. But you may not know that you use more water in the bathroom than anyplace else in your home. In fact, between the toilet, the shower and the sink you can use up to 55 gallons a day.

You could end up using 30 to 60% less water by using a low-flow shower head.

Multiply that by the number of homes in the world, and that's a lot of natural resources going down the drain.

Now, we're not saying you should stop taking showers or brushing your teeth. We're just suggesting some simple bathroom training. For instance, when you're brushing your teeth, turn off the water. Do the same when you're shaving. And just because your shower sounds like an opera hall, don't feel the need to sing one. Shorter songs make for shorter showers.

And for the biggest culprit of them all, the toilet, try putting a weighted jug in the tank. It will help save water every time you flush. Plus, don't forget to turn out the lights when you leave. You'll be helping to conserve electricity.

Save up to 15% more water by installing a weighted jug in your toilet tank.

And oh yeah, if you don't think you'll remember these things, take this newspaper with you the next time you go.

SEWER MERGER DOWN THE DRAIN

West Sacramento's sanitary district board Tuesday night apparently wrote finis to current efforts to consolidate the area's three sanitary districts.

Meeting in the district offices on Merkley avenue, the district directors in four separate actions:

1. Voted to inform the Bryte sanitary district board that its counter-proposal for replacing that district's force main as a condition of consolidation is "unacceptable" and agreed to make no effort to negotiate the question.

2. Decided to press for negotiation of a new service contract with the Bryte district, including a metering device to measure the sewage flow from that area, which would make Bryte "pay its own way" in the use of the West Sacramento treatment plant.

3. Agreed to pursue the possibility of annexation of the Broderick district or consolidation of Broderick and West Sacramento if informal discussion with members of that district's board show they favor such action.

4. Authorized General Manager Eric C. Hughes to meet with the Arlington Oaks Improvement club and pursue the possibility of annexing Arlington Oaks subdivision, located south of the Sacramento-Yolo port district's barge canal, into the district and extending the district's sewage service to the undeveloped West Sacramento farms area.

In a letter to the West Sacramento group, the Bryte board recommended consolidation be effected on an "as is" basis and contended replacement of the force main which delivers the district's sewage to the West Sacramento treatment plant would be a waste of the taxpayers' money. The Bryte board also suggested that in the event the "as is" recommendation is not acceptable a survey be conducted by an impartial, outside firm, and financed by all three districts, to determine what action should be taken.

The directors later agreed, indirectly, with Bryte's contention after Attorney William Collard, representing Attorney Morton Friedman, explained that a bond issue approved in the Bryte district for the recommended replacement of the line could not be spent elsewhere and construction of the new line probably would have to be started before consolidation could take effect.

After the legal technicalities were explained, the board members agreed this was not their specific intention. What they really want, they said in effect, was for Bryte to contribute the sum necessary for replacement of the line as a condition for consolidation.

In other action Tuesday night the directors:

1. Accepted "with regret" the resignation of Board President Carleton B. (Carl) Rogers, effective December 31, and appointed Robert L. Newton to succeed him as head of the board. Rogers tendered his resignation "with much regret," explaining that it was prompted by increased business activity.

2. Voted to recommend to the board of supervisors the appointment of Dennis Sea, a former member, to fill the vacancy on the board. Sea was defeated in the September board election but polled the largest number of votes among the candidates not elected.

3. Received a letter from the county counsel's office informing the board it could prosecute persons refusing the pay for garbage collection under the district's garbage collection ordinance. The opinion was requested through the counsel's office from the state attorney general's office.

4. Awarded to the Tops Chemical company of Sacramento next year's contract for furnishing chlorine at $95 per ton in lots of five tons. A high bid of $109 per ton was submitted by the Continental Chemical company.

Henry Has Big Loss In Flood

Clyde W. Henry of Redwood City, owner of the West Sacramento Water company, sustained a loss estimated at approximately $40,000 in the flood last week which destroyed the town of Klamath in Del Norte county.

Henry's water system served an estimated 500 people.

Contacted at Redwood City by telephone yesterday, Henry said he has been informed the flood left only two houses standing in Klamath. The town was almost completely destroyed in the Christmas week floods of 1955, he added, and there is considerable doubt he or anyone else will rebuild following this latest disaster.

In addition to the West Sacramento and Klamath water companies, Henry also owns and operates a water system in Redwood City.

Search Will Be Resumed

The search for Gary Enos, 22, of 521 Pecan avenue, West Sacramento, missing since he went duck hunting in the Yolo by-pass Wednesday afternoon, December 23, will be resumed as soon as the by-pass water condition permits.

This was reported yesterday by the Yolo county sheriff's East Yolo substation which headed the search for young Enos last week, aided by a Civil Air Patrol aircraft, a helicopter and other emergency units.

Enos was last seen in a kayak in water south of the causeway. His kayak has not been found.

Rainfall Total: 10.57"

Rains during the past week have added 5.80 inches of precipitation to the total for the area, according to records kept by Ben Minter at his weather station in West Sacramento.

Through Monday, the total for the month stood at 5.70 inches, Minter reported, with 10.57 inches as the total for the season. The normal seasonal total at this time of year is 5.74 inches.

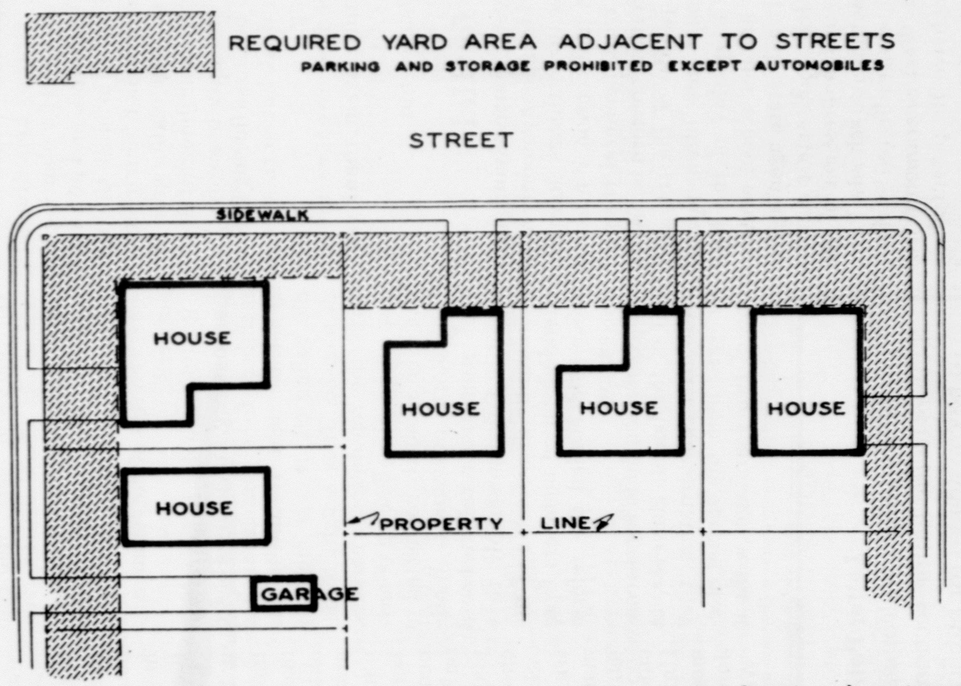

Illustration on notices being circulated by the Yolo county planning department shows areas where parking or storage of trailers, boats, mobile homes or other non structural objects except automobiles will be prohibited beginning Jan. 1.

NEW LAW PROHIBITS FRONT YARD STORAGE

The storing or parking of trailers, boats, mobile homes or other non-structural objects except automobiles in front yards will be against the law in Yolo county starting next January 1.

Notices to this effect are being circulated by the Yolo county planning department, together with an illustration showing the so-called required front yard areas adjacent to streets where the storing and parking will be prohibited.

The prohibition is contained in section 26.02b of county ordinance No. 488, recently adopted by the Yolo county board of supervisors.

The planning department's notice states that "parking areas may not be located within the required yard adjacent to a street and that the pre-existing use of the required yards adjacent to streets for parking or storage of vehicles, boats or other non-structural objects, other than automobiles, shall be prohibited from and after January 1, 1965."

It adds:

"Those trailers, boats, mobile homes or other objects now existing in such yards must be removed by January 1, 1965."

Persons desiring further information regarding the ordinance are advised that they may contact the planning department at 203 Lincoln Avenue, Woodland, phone MOhawk 2-3241, extension 322.

Clarksburg High School Districts have issued statements of intent regarding phasing students out of Clarksburg High if annexation is successful.

Both districts have agreed that students attending Clarksburg High during the current school year (1964-65) be allowed to finish their education at Clarksburg if desired. They may also transfer to Washington Unified beginning next fall (1965) if they elect to do so.

Miss Jermstad was hospitalized late in November after suffering a ruptured blood vessel. She underwent surgery in San Francisco December 16 and came home December 23.

HOWARD M. TURNER has been promoted to the post of sales manager of the real estate department of the West Sacramento Land company effective January 1, it was announced this week by General Manager Albert S. Walton. Turner, who joined the local firm's staff two years ago, was formerly employed as a land appraiser for the Sacramento county assessor's office. He is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley.

FRANKED GROWTH— The amount of franked mail posted by the government more than doubled between 1953 and 1962, a recently issued study by the Budget Bureau shows.

There may be times in our human experience when mind and heart question the reason for things. city council candidate, called a press conference Tuesday morning to comment on the state's new report.

"I think that there are city officials who need to be terminated immediately," said Cheek, "and I leave it up to the city council to make that decision. I think the council needs to take immediate steps. We can no longer cover up this issue."

Although he declined to give names, Cheek said that these city officials were both inside and outside the public works department.

And Cheeks said some documents are "missing." He said that two of the city's consulting firms, CH2M Hill and DeWante and Stoll, have written memos to the city about the sewage plant's problems, but these reports are being kept confidential.

Goeden said Tuesday that no such reports exist, and that the only report written by CH2M Hill is the one made public a week ago.

million toward the purchase of the buildings, one of which will be leased back to the county for social services. The county is also contributing approximately $600,000 toward the project. The city will be acquiring the county owned property at 3rd and C and the county's interest in property jointly owned by the city and county on West Capitol Avenue.

Mayor Wes Beers heralded this project, "This is an excellent example of how government agencies can work together for the benefit of the public. So often projects such as this one never get off the ground due to a lack of cooperation and/or mistrust. The city and county have proven that working together is possible."

Unrelated to the county but part of this transaction was the purchase of a building for the city's police department. This building is located at 1001 Triangle Court. The building will be remodeled for the police. This too is a major step forward. Mayor Beers stated, "Since incorporation, the police have been in a facility ill-suited for their needs. The staff have been very tolerant of the conditions. I sincerely appreciate their patience."

Occupancy for all the facilities is slated for the latter part of 1995.

The West Sacramento City Council will hold a meeting on Wednesday, May 11, at 7 p.m. in the council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. Agenda items include:

"Politics as usual isn't working."

Our city leadership has closed its eyes to the serious health, environmental, and criminal charges of fradulent mismanagement of the wastewater treatment plant. As a result of more than a year of inaction, our city faces multiple lawsuits, criminal investigation, severe fines, and a battered reputation. West Sacramento is paying dearly for the city's "ostrich" strategy.

We deserve decisive action — not a cover-up, not special interest politics, not more consultants, and not more delay and denial. It's time to restore confidence and trust in city government.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF AGNES FLORENCE BAKER CASE NUMBER 20727

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of AGNES FLORENCE BAKER:
A PETITION has been filed by ESTEL JACK BAKER in the Superior Court of California, County of YOLO.
THE PETITION requests that ESTEL JACK BAKER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on May 17, 1994 at 8:30 in Dept. 7 located at 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The timing of the disclosures and the media hype may work against a proper focus on the item of system and correct management. The timing is a heaven sent opportunity for a candidate for office to bash incumbents and the hype can distract from our ability to monitor the progress made in getting the faults corrected in system and management.

Assigning blame is a matter for review, hearings and analysis by an impartial fact finding agency for judgement at a later date by courts and public — first the verdict, then the trial.

West Sacramento has a history of politics that remind one of the song, "Who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder?" We are now a city. As an electorate, we have time to find out on whose watch the system began to fail and why. Did it start with the first city administration or before? To what extent has the city been pressured by the developers and the businesses large and small to be business friendly and overlook corrections seen as non-friendly to business? Has the community pressured the city to try to do too much, too soon making up for all 80 years of "Develop First, Take Care of Needs Later?"

The bottom line must be: Give the city council the charge (the charge which should have been day number one for the first mayor and council). Don't bite off more than you can chew! Take all the good projects North, South, East, and West and on West Capitol Avenue. Put them in priority order and rational, geographic order and begin to "digest" the priorities.

The slower sure way in the long run will make us become the community we want sooner!

School board

Most of us who went to public school in the 1950's and 1960's attended schools where English was the common language of nearly everyone we knew, where it was safe for a 5-year-old to walk or ride a bicycle to school by him/herself, and where all levels of public education were adequately funded.

Today, however, public schools face a lingering recession, increasing criminal behavior involving drugs and gang violence, and a large student population for whom English is a second language. In addition, greater funding for children with "special needs" presents a heavy burden on our educational resources.

Despite simplistic cries from our school board leadership of "Just use common sense," there are no quick solutions to the complicated problems facing our schools. In the words of H.L. Mencken, "For every complex question there is a simple answer — and it's wrong."

The challenges to school adminstrators are complicated and solutions to the problems require that administrators and board members be well-informed to their tasks.

I hope the community of West Sacramento can elect school board members who know what schools are about. It just makes sense.

"Whoops"

Whoops! The Ledger article last week about the state senate race implied that the Democrats had now chosen their nominee for the new Fourth Senatorial District, stretching from Benicia to the Oregon border. Not so!

The nomination of the Democratic party will be made in the June 7 primary election, when all members of the Democratic party can vote, not just those ambitious and affluent enough to attend the caucus at the party convention in Los Angeles in mid-April.

As the article concedes, there is another candidate in this race: Montana Podva, a farmer/attorney with experience in government service, a graduate of the University of California at Davis, a fourth-generation Northern Californian and worked as an energy analyst for the state department of conservation. I can commend Montana Podva as a thoughtful and far-sighted choice to my fellow Democrats.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING and AVAILABILITY OF ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENT

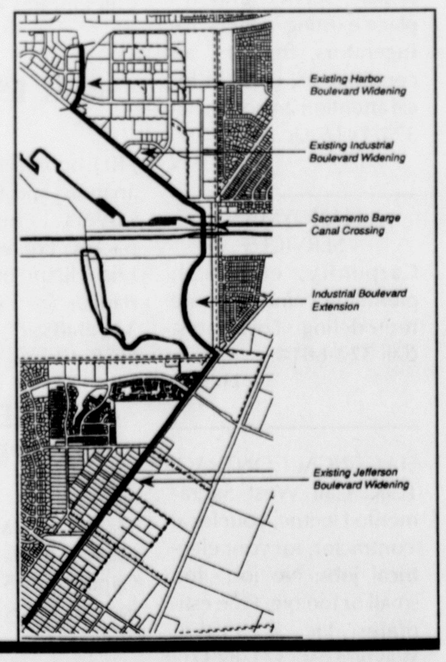
for the Harbor Blvd., Industrial Blvd., and Jefferson Blvd. Improvement Project

The City of West Sacramento and the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) are planning to improve a 3.1 mile section of roadway from the Harbor Blvd./ State Route 50 / Business 80 Interchange south to the intersection of Jefferson Blvd. and Marshall Road in West Sacramento. The project includes widening Harbor Blvd. from the interchange to Industrial Blvd., widening of Industrial Blvd. from Harbor Blvd. to Stone Blvd., construction of a new bridge crossing of the Deep Water Ship Channel barge canal, a 6-lane extension of Industrial Blvd. to link it to Jefferson Blvd. near Arlington Road, and widening of Jefferson Blvd. to Marshall Road. The first segment of this project to be constructed is the Palamidessi Bridge, with construction scheduled to begin in the summer of 1995.

An open forum hearing will be held and all interested members of the community are invited to attend. City staff will be present to talk with individuals, answer questions, and take comments. There will be a brief presentation to familiarize the public with the proposed project. The time and place of the hearing are listed below.

WHEN:
Thursday, June 9, 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

WHERE:
Sam Combs Activity Center on Stone Blvd. at Virginia Ave.



The City, in cooperation with Caltrans, has prepared an environmental document for this roadway improvement project. The finding of this environmental document is that there will be no significant adverse environmental effects of the project. This environmental document is called a Draft Environmental Assessment/Negative Declaration. The public review period for this environmental document is May 10 to June 9, 1994.

The environmental document, project maps, and other project information are available for review at the City of West Sacramento Community Development Department, 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Other locations where the environmental document is available are the Turner Branch Library at 1212 Merkley Avenue, and City Hall at 2101 Stone Boulevard.

If you cannot attend the open forum hearing but have comments concerning the project, please submit them in writing to the address shown to the right by June 9, 1994.
